MORMON ELDER IS KILLED

NEW PAVING SCHEME IS PLANNED

Swept To Death Over Maui Cliff

Missionary From Utah Loses Life In Journey Over Treacherous Trail

(Special Bulletin Wireless).

HANA, Maui, Jan. 10.—Losing his footing in a swift stream that swept over the cliff and down to the sea more than a thousand feet below, Elder J. E. Kirtman, of the Mormon church, was killed today on the road between Kipahulu and Kaupo.

Elder Kirtman accompanied by Elder Frank McMasters set out this morning to go to Kaupo from Kipahulu, a distance of about fourteen miles. The mountain path is one of the most dangerous in the entire Territory. It skirts the edges of the cliffs, crosses deep gulches and dashing streams, and almost anywhere along its course a misstep means death or accident. The two Mormon leaders were riding on mules. At Alelele, some two miles from Kipahulu, the trail crosses a swift and treacherous stream close to the edge of the cliff. It is supposed that Elder Kirtman's mule lost its feet in the water. Both mule and rider were swept over the cliff and down into the sea far below. So far the body has not been recovered, although efforts are being made to do so.

According to local members of the church, both Elders Kirtman and McMasters are residents of Utah and were sent here to carry on the missionary work of their faith. They arrived less than a year ago and lately have been doing church work on Maui. Their home was previously in Salt Lake City. The Bulletin's message today was the first received here telling of the accident.

EXPECTED OPPOSITION TO HOLSTEIN SHOWN IN ATTITUDE OF TWO OAHU MEN IN CAUCUS

H. L. Holstein of Hawaii promises to have a fight on his hands in getting the speakership of the next Legislature. Although the caucus of Republican members of the next House from Oahu last night showed that the majority of the Oahu delegation favors Holstein, it was evident that the opposition here is unexpectedly strong. The Bulletin's prediction of a split was fulfilled.

Eleven members of the twelve in the delegation attended the meeting, the absent one being S. K. Mahoe of Waihala, who did not come because of the distance. An informal vote on the speakership question showed nine in favor of Holstein, although several of these, it is understood, are not fully decided to back him vigorously.

The caucus was executive, but it was admitted today that at least the sentiment was such as to show that Sam Kelihoi of Maui may prove a more formidable candidate than Holstein anticipates. Kelihoi is said to

PROMOTION WORK MAY BE HALTED

That the work of the Promotion Committee will be seriously hampered if the Board of Supervisors takes away the county appropriation of $250 monthly is the declaration of members of the committee and of Secretary H. P. Wood, who supports the declaration with a statement of work being done and planned for the future. It shows that the committee actually needs more money than is now available.

"In the next year we should have at least $20,000," said Secretary Wood this morning. "Our income is about $1000 a month, including the county appropriation."

"The work that has been done has brought the committee to the point where it should not go back. We have organized an immense system of distributing promotion literature. Our printing, our postage and our general correspondence work will be greatly hampered by curtailing the funds.

"In the near future we should be distributing two or three million pieces of literature a year. Our postage bill is high. Lately we printed a great deal of floral parade literature, and this in itself cost about $1000."

"However, this is little compared to the results. It is safe to say that tourists in the next four months will spend in the Islands $500,000. The excursion from Seattle alone will spend here at least $50,000."

"All of the Promotion Committee's supplies are bought here in Honolulu. We are not complaining, but we will consider it most unfortunate if the county cuts off $250 per month at a time when we most need it."

It was said this morning that the Promotion Committee will get an additional appropriation from the next Legislature. If the plans of some of the members work out, the county appropriation is available until April 1.

Sixty-four out of every 1,000,000 persons the world over are blind.

SUPERVISORS TO CALL FOR BIDS ON PAVING

To the lowest bidder will be awarded the next street paving contract is the statement expressed by the majority of members of the new Board of City and County Supervisors.

Permanent improvements is a matter that the city fathers will take up for consideration with the beginning of April. The present appropriation bill covers the expense of the municipality for three months only.

When a new measure is drafted there will be incorporated a sufficient sum to cover the cost of paving one or more blocks of downtown streets.

"We are in favor of letting out the paving contracts to the lowest bidder," stated Supervisor Murray this morning. "We want to give all contractors a chance. I think that it would be far better to try several varieties of paving such as reinforced concrete, brick, wood blocks and also asphalt or bituminous pavements than to award the work to but one concern."

"I want to call for bids. The man who has the best paving for the least money is the fellow that should secure the job. A section of each laid on a business thoroughfare would readily demonstrate the superiority of pavement best suited to the needs of Honolulu."

The present Board is understood will make a record along lines of street paving.

150 TEACHERS HEAR GOOD TALKS

One hundred and fifty teachers of the public and private schools attended the meeting of the Teachers' Association held in the city last evening. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic assemblies of teachers that has been held for months, if not years, under the auspices of this organization.

Commissioner Worth Aiken of Maui was one of the speakers who attracted particular attention by his vigorous utterances in favor of the Territorial system of public school administration.

Among the other speakers was President Gilmore of the College of Hawaii, who set forth the details of the Doolittle-Davis bill now before Congress. This it passed will give Hawaii Federal funds for industrial high schools on each of the islands of the group. This is the bill for which the Delegate to Congress is pledged to work and one that is being considered with general favor by the educators of the mainland.

BAS-RELIEF IS NOW INSTALLED

Workmen started yesterday installing the Castle memorial bas-relief, representing Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Castle, in the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Hall at Oahu College. The memorial is the work of Curzon Osborne of this city. Preliminary work on making a niche in the wall ready to receive the statue was done during the holidays. It is in bronze and underneath are the words: "A Life in Civic Action Warm. A Soul on Highest Mission Bent."

The bas-relief is five feet six by four feet.

McKinley Statue Here; Another Chapter Added To Long Delays

Bills of Lading for Pedestal Lost Between Honolulu and Maine.

The McKinley statue is here at last.

After nearly ten years of agitation in the community, the heroic figure in bronze that will stand in front of the McKinley High School has been finished, is in Honolulu, and within a few weeks the metal statue of the martyred President will be erected.

As a climax to the many delays which the making of the statue has undergone, there is now a hitch in the delivery of the handsome granite pedestal. The pedestal comes from Rockland, Me., and the bills of lading for it have been lost. Until they are found the statue faces another wait.

For more than two weeks the statue has been lying boxed up on the American-Hawaiian wharf, where it was delivered by steamer from the Coast. Few have known of it—in fact, there promised to be a large, lively mystery connected with its whereabouts—but Curzon Osborne of Honolulu, the sculptor who has created the statue, today said that the committee wished to get everything ready before announcing the unveiling. The delay in getting the pedestal proved another upset to Mr. Osborne's plans. However, cable and telegraph are now busy in an effort to locate the missing bills, and they will be found in a short time.

The statue and pedestal when set up will be seventeen feet in height. The statue itself is eight and the pedestal nine. The statue is a bronze.

The members of the Board of Instruction were not in session this morning, having left the city on a tour of inspection with the Boys' Industrial School as an objective point.

Water Works Need $500,000

Next Legislature Will Be Asked To Vote Bond Issue---Fire Protection Essential

A bond issue of $500,000 will be urged upon the next Legislature, convening the 15th of next month, for the purpose of improving and extending the water system of Honolulu. This sum, it is believed by the Territorial administration, is essential for the bringing of the water system of the city to a basis that will provide adequately for all eventualities of the future and meet the needs of the community as a growing city.

The greatest difficulty that has been encountered in distributing the water has been the smallness of the mains, which were laid at a time when the necessities of the future were not taken into consideration. The improvement of the water system is of critical importance in the opinion of Superintendent of Public Works Marston Campbell. He states that two of the populous residential districts of the city, Manoa Valley and Kaimuki, are practically without fire protection.

In connection with the water situation, Campbell defends the action of the department in forcing the placing of about fifty-five meters upon city water mains. Campbell declares that this action, which had aroused protests, has been taken under authority granted by act of the last Legislature. He declares that the meters have stopped wastes in many cases and will be continued to be used when thought necessary by the department.

The request for the $500,000 bond issue for the improvement of the Honolulu water works at the next Legislature will be connected with the strong fight that will probably be made to turn over the control of the water works to the county government.

TO COMBAT INFECTIOUS DISEASE IS THE MISSION OF NEW SEPTIC TANK

To more successfully serve in combat with a possible invasion of infectious disease from Oriental or other quarters of the globe, the new septic tank system for a disposal of sewage now under construction at the plant of the United States Marine Hospital and Quarantine Station is destined to prove a pronounced factor in the maintenance of healthful conditions.

Through the efforts of Dr. Carl Ramus and his corps of assistant medical officers, the necessity of keeping the Honolulu quarantine station up to the highest standard of efficiency as regards modern equipment has been constantly brought before the proper officials at Washington who in turn have induced Congress to make a suitable appropriation to complete the work.

A septic tank for the disposal of sewage on Quarantine island is assured. The work of installing a plant that will cost between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars is well under way. It will be several months before the system will be ready to be placed in operation.

United States government engineers have completed their survey for the plant. They also made a series of borings to determine the necessary grades and sub-stratum suitable for the large tank foundations. A force of men are now going forward with the construction of a receptacle which will be divided into two portions. Arranged in the form of practically two separate tanks each will be so situated that the contents can be heated to a boiling point. The system of handling sewage is declared as the only solution of combating a possible epidemic of cholera.

The sewage and drainage from the quarantine camp is confined to the tanks there treated by heat and chemicals which serve to destroy all germs and bacteria. The tanks are to be closed and the effluent after treatment is turned into conduits which lead into the sea.

An electrical centrifugal pumping plant is to be installed to assist in the movement of sewage from the tanks to the ocean.

The septic tanks will have a capacity of one hundred and fifty gallons sewage per capita per day.

While this plant now under construction is considered rather large in size it is claimed by the local authorities that the system is none to great for the possible demands that may be made upon it through the increase in shipping at the port of Honolulu. It is also stated that this being a tropical country in every sense the demands upon such a system will be far greater than a similar system for one of the coast cities.

An appropriation sufficient to cover the cost of construction of the system is one of many matters that will be brought before the present session of Congress at Washington.

peared except among those suspects held in quarantine.

Regarding the assertion that a number of Maui residents have expressed the wish that the Territorial Health authorities would leave off their labors and come back to Honolulu, Dr. Pratt stated that during his hurried trip of investigation to the island he found general satisfaction with the work of Mr. Charlock and his assistants and a desire that they remain and continue their fight that resulted in the curbing of the epidemic.

Sweden has 101,000,000 acres of land. Half of it is forest land. Most of it is private forests. Finland has more forests than Sweden.

MORE CASES IN QUARANTINE

A wireless received this morning by Dr. Pratt, Acting President of the Board of Health, stated that eight more cases of diphtheria have developed in the detention camp that was established by the Territorial Board of Health authorities at Pala.

The development of these cases in quarantine is not regarded in a serious light because they are all of a mild form and no new cases have ap-
